

Developments Consultancy Service

ADIL's team of experienced oil and gas experts offers bespoke development consultancy services based on the early part of the project life cycle from appraise through to sanction. For projects where a broader skill set is required, ADIL resources the requisite skills from its Projects and Operations service groups.

Our experienced and knowledgeable personnel can also provide technical, commercial and operating committee representatives as well as the monitoring of Operator proposals and budgets.

We are able to offer comprehensive reviews of company portfolios and strategies using the full breadth of skills of our developments, operations, financial and legal teams.

Development Management Services

The early stages of a development have the greatest influence on project value. All of ADIL's key personnel have worked within oil companies and many have been involved in creating and evaluating various development options.

We will work across all of the viable development options, from manned and unmanned fixed installations to subsea infrastructure and floating solutions. We bring our professional skills and comprehensive knowledge of facilities, infrastructure, metocean criteria and regulatory requirements to identify and mature the optimal development solution in a holistic and value adding environment.

The service can be extended to support an oil and gas company in its capacity as a co-venturer. ADIL personnel have extensive knowledge and firsthand experience in coordinating and participating in a co-venture capacity in operating, technical and commercial committees. This allows a co-venturer to leverage our experience and expertise to gain its desired outcome in a constructive and participatory manner.

A & D Support and Opportunity Screening

ADIL offers an opportunity screening and evaluation service which harnesses our extensive knowledge and experience in project ranking, asset acquisition and divestment, and our collective practical knowledge of asset development, infrastructure and operations in the North Sea.

We provide a full range of integrated in-house project screening services including subsea, topsides, operations, abandonment, HSEQ, economics, commercial and legal. We believe that this service is invaluable in enabling a company to identify strategic opportunities and focus on value adding decisions.

We can carry out a systematic and rigorous analysis of threats and opportunities with regard to the development and/or operations of individual assets or a strategic area. The service can include screening of potential acquisition targets (with regard to development opportunities and producing assets), within field and near field opportunities, and regional development and infrastructure opportunities.

This is a bespoke service which can complement a client's in-house screening process by offering a range of services from individual technical, economic, commercial and legal support, through to provision of an integrated ADIL team.

Non-Operated Asset Management Service

Several ADIL personnel have held senior positions within major oil companies with responsibility for the management of both operated and non-operated assets. Their experience encompasses the safety, technical, commercial and financial aspects of asset management and carbon sequestration and decommissioning activities.

These skills can be applied in support of a client's aims in developing commercial strategies, identifying production improvement opportunities and enhancement of the financial performance of an asset by influencing the operator or co-venture group in a collaborative and appropriate manner.

Portfolio Analysis and Strategy Review

With practical experience in portfolio analysis and strategy review ADIL is able to offer this service to both operator and non-operator clients. The service harnesses our extensive knowledge and experience in project and portfolio ranking, asset acquisition and divestment and utilises our collective practical knowledge of asset development, infrastructure and operations.

These skills may be applied across all aspects of a client's portfolio, enhancing its value through the identification of strategic opportunities as well as acquisition and divestment options.

We can offer a range of services to complement a client's in-house processes, such as engineering, economic, commercial, legal and management support, through to the provision of a fully integrated ADIL team.

want to know more?

For more information on any of the above please contact:

Mike Fuery,
Developments Consultancy Manager

T 01224 659927
E mike.fuery@assetdev.com